

Arthur E. McCauley, Jr.

Minnesota Occupational Safety and Health Leadership Award

The Minnesota Department of Labor and Industry seeks to honor a safety or health professional who is an example of safety excellence. The award is named for former Minnesota Safety Council member, Arthur E. McCauley, Jr., whose work as a safety professional encompassed the attributes of this award. McCauley, who died in 1996, was regarded for his work as a manager of the Minnesota Safety Council, a member of the Minnesota Occupational Safety and Health Advisory Council, and his efforts to improve the safety and health of Minnesota's workplaces.

The department, in cooperation with the Minnesota Occupational Safety and Health Advisory Council, seeks to honor an individual who has high ideals, personal character, and safety and health competence. The nominee may be someone who has gone beyond the ordinary call of duty and has participated in projects or efforts focused on improving the quality of safety and health in Minnesota workplaces. Candidates may be further distinguished by demonstrating innovation in the performance of their duties or demonstrating an ability to effectively handle complex or unusual occupational safety and health concerns. The award will be presented at the Minnesota Safety Council's Conference Awards Ceremony in May of each year.

Eligibility

An individual who has made outstanding or significant contributions to advance occupational safety and health in Minnesota workplaces is eligible for nomination. Employees, business and labor representatives or public officials may receive this award. Employers, employees, public officials, and labor and professional organizations may nominate individuals for this award. All nominees require a sponsor.

Nomination and selection

The Department of Labor and Industry encourages the submission of nominations. The award committee will select the recipient for the award. Nominations must be submitted on the attached form by mail, by fax or in person, no later than March 30, of the award year, to:
